WEDNESDAY.....DEC. 23, 1858.

A Rev. in a Difficulty.

A man, passing under the name of John Renfro, arrived in this city a couple of days ago. He being an Odd Fellow, went to several gentlemen belonging to this order, and then did a tale unfold, to the following effect: He said he had sold two thousand dollars' worth of hogs to a stock trader, named John McLean, at Covington Branch. The next morning, after receiving the check, he went to Covington to draw the money, when he was told the check was mere worthless paper. He said he had told a gentleman, one of the officers, in Cincinnati, of the affair; that, having heard this, McLean had come down the river; he had followed him thus far, and it was to enable him to proceed on in search of him that he begged of the brotherhood to loan him money; which was succeeded in getting some twenty-five or thirty dollars from different persons.

Officer D. T. Bligh, hearing of the affair, and thinking, perhaps, he might assist the gentleman in the search, called on Mr. Renfro. He, in the mean while, had written to the office in Cincinnati about the matter, who said "twas all a lie." Mr. B. then arrested the gentleman, and went to his carpet-case; which, after searching, proved this Mr. Ranfro to be the Rev. Ronald Nicholson, and haled off to Ottowa, (Ills.) In his pocket was found a pair of false whiskers, which he said he wore for a sore throat. Letters were found in his carpet bag, some of which spoke very highly of him, and others not quite so much so.

NATIONAL HOTEL.—The arrangements were completed yesterday which have been in consultation for some time, and the National Hotel was thrown open under entirely new management, and in the hands of those who are not only able to make it pay, but who possess the requisite knowledge of what the traveling community desire in a first-class hotel.

Messrs. W. S. Knott, Curran Poole, and Chas. F. Reynolds, in the name of W. S. Knott & Co., have leased the house for a term of years, and are now busily engaged in refitting and refurnishing. The house is open for travelers now, and will very shortly be in full blast. These gentlemen are all well known in the city, especially Charles Reynolds, who will have the active management. He knows what is needful, and is possessed of that urbanity and courteous bearing which so well renders a guest at home.

ST. FRANCIS HOTEL, PADUCAH, KY.—We desire to call the attention of the traveling public, to the card of this first-class house in Paducah. It has, during the past summer, been repaired and refurnished, and is now kept in the best style by our clever friend, and everybody else's friend, Mr. John Shiefflin, late of this city. It has two spacious billiard saloons, etc. If travelers wish to take the packets for Cumberland or Tennessee rivers, this is the place to stop; both of which lines of packets leave Paducah daily. This fine hotel keeps no night watch, so that passengers need not lay over, and be delayed for any part. We advise those who wish to enjoy the comforts of a good hotel to try the St. Francis. All right. "Nuff sed," We are in, John.

THE FAIR AT THE MASONIC TEMPLE—We were much struck last evening with the tasteful and really elegant decorations of the various stands. Each has the name of some Masonic lodge inscribed above it, and is served by ladies connected with its members, respectively. This gives a spirit of emulation to the arrangements, which has the happiest effect upon the eye. The attendance thus far, considering the weather, is highly encouraging. It is delightful to witness the group of cheerful ladies and attentive gentlemen, as they pass to and fro upon the promenade, through the Grand Hall, one of the finest apartments, for public purposes, west of the Allegheny mountains. We predict, with bright skies, and drier pavements, a throng for to-night.

Mr. C. C. Spencer has a large sale of dry goods, shoes, toys, girls' underwear and jewelry, this morning, at auction rooms, 520 Main street, to which he will add an invoice just received of variety goods, such as crinolines, de-laines, velvet ribbons, gimpes, galloons, fringe, tape, hair pins, garters, kid gloves, laces, lace, pomponnies, cigar cases, combs, combs and vest buttons, razor straps, with many other articles suited to the trade. We call the special attention of merchants to this sale.

Mr. Paul Jones announces, through another column this morning, that he has added, in connection with his cigar business, the liquor business in all its branches. He is just in the receipt of a fresh assortment, and can supply families with all demands in that line. This pack comes prepared and with directions how to mix it for use. It speaks for itself, but we can assure our readers that it is one of the most palatable beverages gotten up.

OYSTERS FOR CHRISTMAS—Mr. Charles Eden will keep on hand, at his Exchange, on Third street, between Market and Jefferson, during the Christmas holidays, a large and fresh supply of fine Baltimore oysters, which he will serve to all who may favor him with a call in the fine style. He will also supply families and restaurants at short notice. There will be an extra fine lunch set, daily at 10 o'clock a.m., to which all his friends are invited. 21-5

A very superior lot of oil paintings in rich gilt frames is advertised by Mr. C. C. Spencer for to-morrow morning. They will be opened for examination this afternoon. We have seen them, and are satisfied that they are well executed and of great merit. We therefore advise those of our readers in want of fine paintings, to avail themselves of this opportunity to get them at their own prices.

OBERVER.

On the morning of the 21st instant, at the residence of his father, William H. Pulteck, in Jefferson county, CHARLES GLOVER, in the 25th year of his age.

Mr. Charles Glover was one of the most estimable young men of this city. He was a son of Mr. Thompson & H. H. Pulteck, attorney-at-law, and a nephew of Dr. George Pulteck, surgeon. He was a member of the Odd Fellows, and a member of the Masonic Lodge. He was a man of great personal character, and was highly esteemed wherever he was known.

One of the party instantly exclaimed, "A panther, another—a panther!" This carried terror to the hearts of every one, and really frightened me to such an extent that my teeth chattered as with the cold, and my hair stood on end. I was compelled to run to the window, where a light was made, and we remained sometime deliberating upon the most proper course to pursue—the screaming noise continuing all the while—when it was determined to advance in the direction whence it proceeded. Having walked half a mile or thereabouts, we came to a house, and, in a few moments, pointed out the source of the noise. It was a dog, which was highly excited; finally the latter were successful. Leaving this ever memorable spot, we proceeded on, and but a short time elapsed when, in the distance, a noise set up of the most astonishing character. Our dogs, upon hearing it, came running back, and were highly consterned; finally the latter were successful.

It was upon this side of a dangerous hill, among enormous rocks and cliffs. Beween two rocks a small aperture was found to lead in some distance. A long pole being obtained and punched in two or three times, out came—"what a possum!" a raccoon; but no two-faced animal, yet, had caused such a commotion.

He was considerably fatigued from our walk, and, on account of the heat, was unable to go further. We took a seat on a rock, and our steps, and by daylight were again at home.

Whether or not it was a panther is the question. Probably it was, judging from the screaming noise.

TACT AND TALENT.—Talent is something, but tact is everything; talent is serious, sober, grave, but tact is gay, gay, gay, gay, gay, gay, gay.

It is not an additional sense, but it is the life of the five: it is the open eye, the quick ear, the judging taste, the keen smell, and the lively touch. Talent is power, tact is skill, talent is weight, tact is momentum; talent knows what to do, tact knows how to do it. When you find a company of men, and a real talent in the same individual, you may set it down as equal to any emergency; and that is why J. M. Armstrong, the great clothier, is succeeding so well in his business. He knows what to buy, and when to buy it; he knows how to combine with the world, or himself; he displays his clear and frank dealing, and his tact tells him that more money is made by selling two dollars' worth of goods, at fifteen per cent, than one dollar at twenty five per cent. Hence his extensive trade. His store is opposite the National Hotel.

FOR THE LADIES.—Great Reduction in Prices.—The attention of buyers is respectfully invited to my large and varied assortment of fancy silks of every description. Velvet Cravat, Figured Delaines, Plaid and Bayaderes, Plaid and Bayaderes, Plaid and Bayaderes, Cravat Evening Hours, (new style), Embroidered and Lace Goods, all of which I will offer from this date to 1st of January, at greatly reduced prices. Ladies will find this opportunity to obtain the newest and most desirable goods in the market at New York prices. Bergman's are the only ones who will call on me to compare. My stock of domestic goods, viz: Flannels, Blankets, Cottons, Sheetings, Cambrics, Linens, &c., is large and complete.
